Delivering Digital Business Agility Through Managed IT Services and Colocation

IT modernization is a top priority for many enterprises, but years of technical debt and cultural baggage has made transformation difficult. Other organizations have made digital transformation progress, but are now course-correcting to control the unanticipated expenses and complexity their cloud strategy brought.

PSM and CoreSite can help each type of organization become an agile digital business and better determine the value of new technologies before adopting them.

CORESITE AND PSM STRATEGIC PARTNERSHIP VALUE

PSM combines a commitment to understanding the nuances of each business' operations with an exceptional ability to align the best technology and talent needed to achieve current and long-term business goals. And although the processes of each organization make it unique, there's a constant element to their solution – a solid foundation on which to develop and evolve IT infrastructure is key to success.

ELIMINATE BARRIERS TO MODERNIZATION AND CUT OPERATIONAL EXPENSES

Today's IT teams typically have more on their project schedule than they can work through, and legacy technology is both inflexible and costly. This oftentimes results in IT teams focusing on day-to-day operations instead of the higher priority, deeply skilled initiatives that drive digital transformation. PSM can assume as many daily operational tasks as a client wants. Their team of experts can also provide help desk support, backups and cybersecurity maintenance as well as network monitoring and performance improvements.

CoreSite data centers are an ideal environment for establishing a flexible, future-ready infrastructure. Direct cloud connections and network density significantly reduce data transfer and broadband costs, and CoreSite's Remote Hands Services take the burden of equipment installation, maintenance and upgrades off your team.
